

Citizen of Hope Dies Suddenly This Morning

Had Stopped At Farmer's
Home When Car
Stalled.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Had Been In Employ of Local Heading Co.
18 Years.

Janson Miller, aged 60 years died early this morning at the home of Arch Melver, a farmer living eight miles west of this city on the Fulton highway.

Mr. Miller was born in Marshall, Ill., September 2, 1869 and came to Hempstead county, Arkansas in 1912.
He had been in the employ of the Hope Heading company for 18 years
as timber inspector and buyer.

He left home yesterday morning in his car to look at some timber in the western part of the county. Last night about 9 o'clock he came to the home of Mr. Melver and asked to spend the night as his car was broken down. About three this morning
Mr. Melver was awakened, and found
Mr. Miller in a dying condition.
Medical aid was summoned immediately but he was dead when the doctor arrived.

The surviving Mr. Miller are his wife and seven children, Mrs. Gladys Ponder, of Hope; Mrs. Geraldine Coleman of Lewisville; Nellie, Lillian, Mildred, Howard and Hanson, Jr., of this city. Two brothers Frank Miller of Little Rock, Angus Miller, Sullivan, Ill., and one sister Mrs. Daisy Friedenberger of Marshall, Ill.

Funeral services have not been announced.

Dr. J. H. Weaver, county coroner, made the following report at noon
Thursday:

"This is to certify that I have viewed the remains of H. A. Miller, deceased, and am of the opinion that he came to his death of heart failure."

Federation of Fairs Will Meet

Varied Program Is Arranged By Homer
Pigg, Sect.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—All phases of the management of fairs, ranging from community projects to state expositions, will be discussed here tomorrow at the annual convention of the Arkansas Federation of Fairs.

A varied program covering every single of fairs has been arranged by W. Homer Pigg, of Hope, secretary and treasurer of the organization.
Among the prominent speakers on the program are Governor Parnell, Harvey D. Wilson, president of the Louisiana Federation of Fairs, Frank L. Fuller, general manager of the Mid-South Fair at Memphis, and E.
G. Blyander, manager of the Arkansas State Fair. Managers and directors of county and community expositions will address the meeting, also.

Officials of the federation have announced they expect the largest attendance of any previous meeting.
Practically every county and district in the state will be represented, it was said.

Three sessions will be held. The morning and afternoon meetings will be devoted largely to business reports and discussions while the night session will be given over to entertainment and election of officers.

Ousted From Dem- ocratic Committee

Charged With Voting Against Nominee for Presidential Electors.

EL DORADO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Charged with having voted against the democratic nominee for presidential electors or assisting in the campaign for the election of president Hoover in the 1928 general election, five members of the Union county democratic central committee were ousted today.

Two other members, charged with having failed to support the democratic ticket, but retained their seats narrowly escaped being ousted at a meeting of the central committee today.

Action was instituted by Joe K. Mahoney, attorney and representative of the Union county democratic club.
No action was taken to individual ticket.

The word 'boss' comes from the low
Dutch and means master.

When Taft, Ill., Was Carried to His Home

Pale and worn and pronounced by his physicians "a very sick man," William Howard Taft—a private citizen again after relinquishing his post as Chief Justice—is shown in this remarkable Hope Star-NEA Service picture as he was carried into his Washington residence upon his arrival from Asheville, N. C. The former President is pictured here as he was born upon friendly arms from the automobile which conveyed him from the railroad station to his home.

County Officers Seize Still; Arrest 3

Still, Mash and Negroes Taken In Raid Near
Clear Lake.

In a raid yesterday morning Hemp-stead County officers confiscated a 100-gallon copper still, 400 gallons of mash and arrested three men.

The still, located on the west bank of Clear Lake, 14 miles southwest of this city, was found last Sunday. It had been watched by the officers a part of the time and yesterday morning as the officers lay in waiting their efforts were rewarded by seeing three negroes coming across the lake from the east side in a boat.
They alighted and after making a careful survey along the banks of the lake, made their way cautiously toward the still. Upon their arrival they were placed under arrest.

The negroes were Henry Williams,
Robert Williams and James Sewell.
They were brought to Spring Hill where a preliminary hearing was heard before Justice Mike Foley, of Spring Hill Township. Each of them was placed under a $5000 bond. Being unable to make the required bonds,
they were placed in jail at Washington. They will also be taken to Federal court at Texarkana to answer charges there.

Officers making the raid were Jim Bearden, Frank Turner, Alex Purcell
and Riley Lewallen.

New Penney Store Manager Arrives

Robert Huguenin Takes Charge; Evans Leaves
for Michigan Today.

Robert Huguenin, new manager of the local J. C. Penney company store, was introduced around town
Wednesday by Roscoe Evans, the retiring local manager, who with his family leaves today for Leeper, Mich.,
after a residence of five and a half years in Hope.

Mr. Evans and Mr. Huguenin are exchanging stores, the Michigan man holding a position with the Penney company and his home community
very similar to that held by Mr.
Evans in this city.

Mr. Huguenin is a former president of Leeper Chamber of Commerce, a Rotarian, and has always been active in community work. Two years ago, while president of the Leeper chamber, he sponsored the organization of a Retail Merchants association, which, considering that his own concern is a cash company, was widely commented on. Mr. Huguenin evidenced much interest in the Hope Merchants association, which was organized last week and began functioning this week.

Paving Work At Mena Is Planned

MENA, Ark., Feb. 6.—Commissioners of Mena's new paving district have selected W. L. Winters, of Fort Smith, as engineer, and work of improving 55 blocks of local streets will be pushed as fast as weather permits.

Concrete paving is planned and among the streets to be improved are portions of three now in routing.

Conjurer Clever, So Was Audience

MARYBOROUGH, Irish Free
State, Feb. 6.—(AP)—It was a clever conjurer who performed slight-of-hand tricks at an entertainment for convicts in the penitentiary
here, but he forgot how clever some of his audience might be.

He was taking half-crowns from the mouth of an assistant and dropping them into a hat on the table.

Soon the hat was half full of the conjurer bowed and said, "I am, and everyone applauded."
The conjurer bowed and smiled.
Later he turned to empty the hat,
but it was already empty.

Someone had stolen the money.

Ex-Official Under Extortion Charge

Arrest of W. Oscar Gordon, Resigned Oklahoma Prosecutor.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6.—(AP)—
W. Oscar Gordon, who Monday resigned as assistant attorney general
of Oklahoma, late Wednesday was charged with extortion after witnesses had testified in the Pottawa-tomic county liquor conspiracy trial in federal court here that they had paid Gordon $2,300 to escape prosecution in connection with their activities in the widespread conspiracy.

Soon after the government rested
its case in the trial of the 25 persons, including Randall Pitman, county attorney, and Frank Cox, former sheriff
of Oklahoma, late Wednesday was filed by Roy St. Louis, United States district attorney. A warrant for Gordon's arrest was placed in the hands of the United States marshal.

Gordon resigned his state office after Homer Knappenberger, former mayor of Earlsboro, and Clarence Burdette, former Earlsboro chief of police, had told of their payments to escape prosecution. Gordon had conducted an investigation of conditions at Earlsboro at the request of Henry S. Johnston, then governor. Knappen-berger and Burdette resigned their city offices as a result of the investigation.

The complaint against Gordon alleges that he demanded and received $1,000 from Knappenberger, paid at the state capitol June 21, 1928, in return for withholding information he had uncovered against Knappenber-ger and Burdette. The penalty for the offense is a fine of not more than $2,000, imprisonment of not more than one year, or both.

Violators Refuse to Break in New Judge

MASON CITY, Ia., Feb. 6.—Specific instructions had been given the police department to "have a full docket" so that incoming police Judge D. H.
to watch disposal of several cases before he took office the following day.
Fitzpatrick would have an opportunity
Fitzpatrick and his predecessor Judge M. C. Coughlin entered the courtroom, seated themselves and waited. After nearly an hour police reported there had not been so much as a traffic violation to furnish material for educating the new judge

C. of C. Gives Out Highway Bulletin

Condition of Main Roads
Leading Out of Hope Discussed.

Hope Chamber of Commerce's road
bulletin under date of last Tuesday gives the following information on principal highway routes out of this city:

Hope-Little Rock: State Highway
Number 4 from Hope to Nashville;
Number 21, Nashville to Glenwood;
Number 70 from Glenwood via Hot Springs. State Highway Number 67 is now closed between Emmett and Prescott due to construction work on that section.

Hope-Texarkana, Dallas and Fort Worth. State Highway Number 67 via Fulton. Short section between Fulton and Texarkana under construction and in bad condition. Passable with the assistance of the State Highway forces. Alternate Route:
State Highway Number 23 from Hope to Lewisville and State Highway Number 2 via Garland City. Ferries operating on both routes. Broadway of America Route from Texarkana to Dallas and Fort Worth.

cello: State Highway Number 4 is the direct route. However, the un-surfaced section through Nevada and Ouachita counties is in bad condition and impassable in places. Alternate Route: The above route to Magnolia; State Highway Number 3 from Magnolia to Camden; Number 4 via Warren.

Hope-Shreveport: Either of the above routes to Texarkana and State Highway Number 71 South from Tex-arkana. Short section south of Tex-arkana under construction but reported passable.

Death of Pine Bluff Boy Being Probed

Dead Youth and Playmate
Quarreled Before Body
Found, Is Report.

PINE BLUFF, Feb. 6.—(AP)—An investigation was underway to determine if James Allen, aged 10, whose body was found near his home here late yesterday with a jagged vein severed, was a victim of an accident or slayed by a playmate.

Coroner Will Rowell began an investigation yesterday and will continue today before reaching a verdict
to the cause of death.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Allen, parents of the dead boy, reported an unnamed playmate of James to have quarreled a short time before the body of the dead youth was found.
Other reports said the boy accidentally thrust a pocket knife into his own throat as he was climbing a fence.

Mrs. Allen was under care of physicians today as a result of shock and grief at the death of her son.

Two Are Released In Murder Mystery of John Eden, Jr.

Arrests Fail To Throw Any Light On Slaying of
of Youth.

SUSPECT BEING HELD

Admit Stopping Car Near
Where Found of Youth Found.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Harold Young, an ex-convict, still being held in jail here after his arrest with two women yesterday, failed to throw any light on the slaying of John Eden, Jr.

Young and two women were taken into custody for questioning after county officers learned the three and another man were seen last Friday night near the spot where Eden's decapitated body was found on railroad tracks near here Saturday morning.

The three admitted they had stopped near where the body was found because their supply of gasoline had exhausted, but denied any connection with the slaying of young Eden.
The two women were released today.

Kiwanis Draws Luncheon Crowd

Many Visitors Present At Regular Meeting
Thursday Noon

The largest attendance in recent weeks assembled at the regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club
Thursday noon at the Barlow Hotel.
Among the visitors were Dr. Bovill,
new pastor of St. Marks Episcopal church of Hope, who was introduced by W. H. Lindsay; and A. V. McDuffie, senior member of the firm of McDuffie, Stewart & Co., certified public accountants of Little Rock, who was introduced by Joe Floyd.

Both guests were members of the Lion's club, which has no organization in Hope. Both gave short talks, which were interesting and entertaining.

Barney Hamm asked for the support of the club in placing Hope on the main line of the proposed government passenger and mail air line between Louisville, Ky., and Dallas, Tex. He advised that it was necessary to provide a landing field at least 500 feet by 500 feet; that the airport be equipped with a beacon light complying with certain specifications, and maintained by its owners; and that the field be owned by a responsible corporation, such as the city government. The government will build and maintain the intervening beacon lights between those at the airports. These lights are placed ten miles apart. He pointed out the tremendous advantage in the future, of being located on the main line of an air-way; and that this transcontinental route offered more clear-flying weather days per year than any of the present lines to the north.

Entertainment for the meeting was furnished by various members who were asked how they would have made a living in the days before luncheon clubs, and before the days of our present civilization, and greatly increased standards of living.
Someone had offered the suggestion that civic work, such as was best accomplished through the co-operative efforts of such clubs, was one of the greatest factors in the constant forward march of progress, and increased standards of living.

Plans were made to push the agricultural program of the Hope Kiwanis club at its regular meeting on February 27th. W. H. Lindsay was given charge of the program at that time.
His firm to conduct a tractor school that week, and plans are being made to interest Hope businessmen, bankers, and Hempstead county farmers in some of the possible improvement in farm prosperity through modernized farm cultivation.

Paul Lewis has charge of the program for next week.

Jury Deadlocked In John Brady Case

Reports From Jurors Say
10 To 2 In Favor of Heavy Penalty.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Deadlocked for more than 36 hours, the jury in the trial of John W. Brady, former jurist, charged with snubbing
to death Miss Lehlia Highsmith, Texas capital stenographer November ninth, today resumed apparently hopeless deliberation.

Reports from the jury to Judge J.
D. Moore that, a 10 to two conviction and a heavy penalty stood in the room of the jurors.

To Take Hoover to Fishing Grounds

This trim craft probably will be converted into a sea-going White House to carry President and Mrs. Hoover southward soon on a brief fishing expedition off Long Key, Florida. It's the houseboat Saunterer, owned by Jeremiah Milbank, treasurer of the eastern branch of the Republican National Committee, and the Hoovers plan to spend more of their time aboard while the rest of their party is quartered in a fishing camp. Physicians have advised President Hoover that brief vacation would be "advantageous to his health."

Candidates Favor Municipal Plant

Those for Mayor Solidly Support City, McFaddin Announces.

Hope's three mayoralty candidates have all filed letters pledging their unqualified support of the municipally-owned water and light plant, E.
F. McFaddin, local attorney, announced Thursday.

Mr. McFaddin wrote an open letter to all candidates for mayor and alderman asking whether each was in favor of retaining the power plant under municipal ownership, whether they knew of any circumstance by which they might be persuaded to sell it, and whether in such event they would be in favor of submitting the issue to a popular vote.

All candidates in the mayoralty contest subscribed unqualifiedly to municipal ownership, Mr. McFaddin said.

Jonesboro To Have Natural Gas Soon

JONESBORO, Feb. 6.—That Jonesboro will be supplied with natural gas before March 1, was the promise made by William A. Green, manager of the natural power department of the Arkansas Power & Light company, in a speech before the Jonesboro Rotary Club. Green declared that gas will be available in all parts of the city by March 15.

A branch line from the gas line being laid between St. Louis and Monroe, La., will supply Jonesboro. The main line was tapped at Hoxie, 20 miles distant. The Arkansas Power & Light Company purchased the franchise of the New City Gas Company, a subsidiary of the John A.
Reed interests here recently.

Many Expected To Attend Hop Friday

Seven Piece Negro Orchestra Will Furnish Music for Event.

It's in the cards that the dance to be held at the Hotel Barlow Friday night will be a good one.

Bob Young and John Wimberly
have engaged a seven piece negro orchestra from Alexandria, La., to furnish music for the occasion. This same orchestra, however, played here Christmas Eve night, and all who attended reported they were "plenty"
good.

A large number of invitations have been mailed to dance lovers, and many out of town persons are expected to gather here for the event.

Many of the dances held in this city have been starting at a late hour, at 10 o'clock and after, but this one will start promptly at 9 o'clock, according to a statement made by John Wimberly today.

Blaze Destroys McCaskill Store

Loss of Early Morning
Fire Estimated To
Be $2500.

Fire of an unknown origin early today destroyed the mercantile establishment of Long & Son at McCas-kill.

The blaze was discovered about 3 o'clock this morning, and before enough help could be summoned the fire was uncontrollable. Loss was estimated to be $2500, which was partially covered by insurance.

Heat from the fire caused windows of an adjoining drug store to break.

George Terry Being Held In Lima Peru

Is Escaped Convict From State Penitentiary
Last October.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The wide variance between the reward offered and amount demanded, made uncertain whether George Terry, fugitive bank robber, reported to be in custody in Lima Peru, would be returned to Arkansas to finish serving a sentence in the penitentiary.

Terry, served a 14-year sentence for robbery of the People's Bank at Pine Bluff, escaped from the Tucker
State penitentiary last October. Warden S. L. Todhunter, of the State pen here, received a cable on January 29 from a man giving his name as Marcel Concha, expressing belief that Terry was held in Lima Peru and asked the reward for his capture.
Todhunter replied that Arkansas offered a $150 reward. Concha cabled back that he understood a $100,000 reward had been posted and that it would be necessary for Arkansas to raise their figure considerably.

Todhunter asked Concha what was the least reward he would consider, and he replied $10,000. The prison warden said this amount was impossible. Meanwhile he is seeking to determine status of Concha, whether he is an officer or a private detective.

Missouri Plans Highways To Cost Over $3,000,000

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6.—Plans for $3,000,000 to $3,500,000 worth of road construction
by the Missouri Highway Department in St. Louis this year have been announced by Division Engineer Rudder of the highway department.

Six state roads radiating from width of 40 or 50 feet adjacent to the city,
in addition to the Lemay Ferry road,
already 40 feet wide adjoining St.
Louis.

Ortiz Rubio Is Resting Easily After Being Shot

Attempt Made Upon Life
After Being President
Only Two Hours.

ATTACKER IS HELD

President Hoover Expressed Characteristic of Act As Cowardly.

(By John Lloyd, AP Staff Writer)
MEXICO CITY, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president of Mexico since yesterday noon, rested easily at his home with a wound in his left jaw inflicted by a .38 calibre pistol shot in his jaw inflicted by a would be killer just two hours after his inauguration.

His physician and secretary who were with him when the attempt was made on his life, believed he would recover sufficiently within a week to resume his duties of his new office.
Meanwhile Portes Gil, who retired as president of the Mexican government, conducted an investigation of the shooting and expressed the belief it was the development of a wide spread plot.

The would be killer is held at Mexico City military headquarters, and has been the object of constant questioning since 2:30, yesterday when six shots were fired into the car of the new president as he left the first cabinet meeting at the National Palace. Seven others are being held by officers in connection with the shooting.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP)—President Hoover, through the state department, communicated to President Rubio his pleasure that the new Mexican chief executive had escaped serious injury when shot yesterday. He expressed the act as cowardly.

Physicians Say Taft Must Have More Rest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP)—William Howard Taft was given a new notion by physicians this afternoon as to the amount of rest he should take. Doctors expressed the belief that that more sleep would prolong the life of Mr. Taft, that rest was what the ex-chief must have.

Hoover Critized In Senate Today

Senator Expresses Dissatisfaction of Law Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP)—President Hoover and his Law Enforcement commission called upon in the senate today by Senator Wagner, democrat New York, to "uncover the real abuses of the prohibition act and to propose remedies for its corrections."

The first speech made in the senate of a preliminary report of the commission by the New York senator expressed dissatisfaction and concluded by saying that Mr. Hoover's origin for the study of prohibition
"started out rich in hopes but ended in sad neglect."

T. A. Gray Will Run for Governor

Representative From Independence County
Announces Today.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 6.—(AP)— Thornberry A. Gray, the man who "discovered" the office of lieutenant governor in the constitution of Arkansas and was defeated in the state's first race for the office, has announced his candidacy on the Democratic nomination for governor this year.

Exploring the state constitution in 1928, Gray discovered that Arkansas had been running along minus the services of a lieutenant governor since 1913.

The Star's Platform

Apply the revenues of the municipal power plant to develop the industrial and social resources of Hope.
More city pavement in 1930, and improved sanitary conditions in the alleys and business back-yards.
Support the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY

A county highway program providing for the construction of a minimum amount of all-weather road each year, to gradually reduce the dirt road mileage.
Political and economic support for every scientific agricultural program which offers practical benefits to Hempstead county's greatest industry.
Encourage farmer organizations, believing that co-operative effort is as practical in the country as it is in town.

STATE

Continued progress on the state highway program.
Fearless tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.
Free Arkansas from the cattle tick.

"The Bear State"

FOR several years this writer has been suggesting that the legislature repeal the law which designates Arkansas by the monstrous title "The Wonder State."

We always understood that the original nickname of Arkansas was "The Bear State," than which no more romantic and colorful title could be imagined. Such a name belongs to the tradition of the original settlers, and it is the duty of present-day citizens to preserve the flavor of a sturdy and delightful past.

To be certain that we were quoting our history correctly, we wrote Dallas T. Herndon, secretary of the Arkansas History Commission, asking whether "Bear State" really belonged to Arkansas. This is his reply under date of January 27:

"Your impression that Arkansas was formerly known as 'Bear State' is quite correct. I remember to have been taught that in the geographies that I studied some forty years ago in school. For a verification of my recollections, however, allow me to refer you to the Americana, which was published as late as 1912. An article in that issue on Arkansas was written by the late Judge U. M. Rose. In his day he was perhaps the best authority in the state on its history, and in his article in Americana he has stated quite naturally and nonchalantly that Arkansas is the Bear State."

"I could cite you other authorities if that were necessary."

"I have always felt about the name 'Wonder State' as you say you feel, that is, that it is stilted and artificial; it is more than that, it is too general and lacks definiteness. Almost any state could be designated 'Wonder State'."

Business Dictates

CHICAGO'S experience with municipal bankruptcy, dismal as it is, may yet provide a considerable gleam of light for the misruled American city dweller.

Chicago is broke and has been broke for quite a while. Now a committee of prominent citizens, holding tax anticipation warrants as security, has pledged a fund big enough to carry the empty city treasury along; but it has tacked a kicker on to this pledge that may spell confusion for the politicians.

This kicker is a simple stipulation that the money be properly spent. Not a penny is to be disbursed without the full knowledge and approval of the committee, which is composed of business men and not of politicians.

There is just a faint bit of light in that procedure. In the long run it may turn out to be a beacon of considerable importance.

Suppose, now, that a big city like Chicago suddenly puts all of its expenditures in the hands of a nonpartisan committee of business men.

How long would a departmental payroll be kept at twice its rightful size for the sake of ward-heeling runners and their friends? How long would expensive contracts with friends or political bag-wigs be tolerated? How long would an official last who had nothing to recommend him but the fact that he had always played ball with the boys at election time?

The answers are obvious. A stunt of this kind could free a city, overnight, from the dead weight of politics that afflicts nearly every municipality in America.

Fine Print Over-Ruled

AGAIN insurance companies have lost a fight for some of the fine print in their policies being sustained. The case is one in which an applicant for insurance made the statement in response to the fine print questions that he was not a sufferer from any specific disease.

The policy was issued, the insured became sick, and later died. It seems definite that the insured was a sufferer from an ailment when the policy was issued. But it was far from certain that the insured knew definitely of the presence of the disease.

The courts have held that when one answers the fine print on the insurance application he is not making warranties, but rather setting forth truthfully what seems the circumstances. If it could be proved that the insured actually knew of the presence of an affliction and did not report that, it would be different.

Perhaps 70 per cent of the people who take out insurance do not understand all the policy contains. They are sold a certain sort of insurance, and they take it as represented. When pay day comes it often is quite another thing.—Hot Springs Sentinel-Record.

A Modern "Eliza" Crossing the Ice!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Although one reads only occasionally of a person who never heard of prohibition there are millions, in the opinion of some government officials, who are unaware just what things involved in the handling and consumption of liquor are actually violations of the federal law.

The National Commission on Law Enforcement and Observation and the prohibition unit have agreed as to the desirability of recodification of all the statutes used in prohibition enforcement. That does not mean that the laws will be in any way changed or that recodification is concerned with more drastic penalties. But it may be that a better understanding of just what is a violation and what is not may save one or two well-meaning citizens from fine or imprisonment, so read right on—bearing in mind that state laws are something else again and that some state enforcement codes are much more to be dreaded than Uncle Sam's.

Here's what lawyers of the prohibition unit say:

It is not illegal to take a drink under the Volstead act.

The legal experts of the prohibition unit do not contend that it is illegal, by federal statute, to buy a drink in a speakeasy for consumption on the premises.

It is not against the law per se to accept the offer of a drink.

It is a violation of the Volstead act to give another person a drink, for the act provides among other things that no person shall "furnish" intoxicating liquor. This is a misdemeanor and a maximum $500 fine is provided for the first offense. The federal authorities have never prosecuted anyone for giving away a lone drink or even two, they say, but the offense is theoretically punishable.

It is against the law to carry liquor on the hip—or elsewhere on the person or in a vehicle—because that is denominated a felony under the Jones act and is punishable by up to five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine, though these penalties are designed to apply to large-scale operators.

It is a violation of the Volstead act to have liquor in one's home unless obtained before the prohibition law went into effect. This is also legally a misdemeanor and may be punished by as much as a $500 fine for the first offense.

The government holds that a person who buys liquor and arranges for its delivery is guilty of conspiracy to violate the law, although this point has not yet been decided by the supreme court.

The Jones "five and ten" act classifies as felonies the transportation, sale, manufacture, export or import of intoxicants.

The only way a person can take a drink without coming into contact with a law violation or a law violator, technically speaking, is to consume liquors purchased and kept on the premises since before prohibition or obtained on a physician's prescription.

The Sheppard bill, designed to brand the buyer of liquor definitely as a law violator, would cause the buying of a drink in a speakeasy or elsewhere to become a misdemeanor. It would also make it a crime for a man who orders liquor transported and delivered is guilty of an illegal act.

"Isle of Lost Ships" Reveals Ocean Wonders

When Columbus, making that celebrated East-to-West hop in 1492, encountered a vast world of seaweed so thick that it impeded the progress of his vessel, his men became frightened.

To avoid it he veered North, and so discovered islands off the coast of North America, instead of the South American mainland. Since that time, the Sargasso Sea has been both a scientific truth and a legend. The only deliberate attempt to explore it and prove that, as theory has it, a veritable solid floating island of seaweed and wreckage exists at its center, was made a century ago by the famous Friedrich von Humboldt. His scientific expedition found land animals and wreckage, such as floating trees, from three continents there, but he could not penetrate the centre.

"The Isle of Lost Ships," a First National-Vitaphone special film coming to the Saenger Theatre Friday for two days, has with sight and sound penetrated the enigma. Highly dramatic and imaginative, this picture nevertheless is based on scientific fact. Great pains were taken in research to make the backgrounds for the fast-moving, entertaining story scientifically accurate. As a result, the filmed truth is even stranger than the fiction of the plot! Irvin Willat directed this big all-star feature. Virginia Valli, Jason

National Forests Receipts Increase

Report Shows Increase of $316,053.96 In Last Six Months.

The money receipts from National Forest activities in the last six months of 1929 were nearly 10 per cent more than the receipts for the same period of 1928, the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today. In the six-month period of 1929, the nine National Forest districts received a net total of $3,245,164.03 from timber sales, grazing fees, etc., an increase of $316,053.96 over the same six months of 1928.

In the six months of 1929, the sale of timber to be cut under Forest Service supervision yielded $2,405,829.17, nearly three-fourths of the total of receipts. Nearly 1,500,000,000 board feet of timber is now being cut annually on the National Forests, or a little more than three per cent of the total cut for the country. The present cut could be materially increased without overcutting the sustained annual yield, says the Forest Service, but for economic reasons it is not the policy to force National Forest timber on the market. Large sales of National Forest timber are made (1) to enable established mills to continue operation, stabilizing communities dependent on them; (2) to prevent depreciation in value of Government timber; (3) to aid development of regions or communities by the establishment of industries and transportation facilities.

Receipts from grazing for the last six months of 1929 amounted to $625,267.99, and increase of nearly $75,000 over the same half-year of 1928. Special use and water-power permits brought in $120,168.64 and $58,042 respectively, increases of $24,711.52 and $4,431.20.

The California District, which includes the National Forests of California and southwestern Nevada, had the largest receipts, $924,830.36, which was more than one-fourth of the total. The North Pacific District, comprising Washington and Oregon, followed with $656,622.28. The Rocky Mountain District had receipts totaling $446,916.42; the Intermountain, $334,645.25; the Northern, $327,822.79; the Southwestern, $276,154.71; the Eastern, $229,445.75; the Alaska District, $43,375.57; and the Lake States District, $23,350.90. These figures are for the last six months of 1929.

Twenty-five per cent of National Forest Receipts is turned over each fiscal year to the counties in which the forests are located; in lieu of taxes, for road building and school development.

There are only two states that have no laws providing a special court for children who come into conflict with the law.

A four-year investigation by the Utah department of agriculture showed that a 253 per cent profit per year was made on a sow.

Retiring?
Barney Dreyfuss carried a tale the other day to the effect that Barney Dreyfuss, boss of the Pirates crew, was ready to retire after thirty years of continuous service as the manager of a National League team. We also heard, once that Barney Dreyfuss was going on a farewell tour. We believe both of those reports were greatly exaggerated.

Barney Dreyfuss, Robinson who was the "Old Guard" dies but it is not true. Or maybe John McGraw. As far as that is concerned, it may even have been Dan O'Leary, who will walk across the city personally when he goes. For all that, it may have been Connie Mack. The fact is, the Old Guard never retires.

What probably has happened is that Barney Dreyfuss has turned over some maps and time-tables to the Junior Dreyfuss, known to the fans as Slim Sam. But Barney Dreyfuss is not retiring. No more than your Uncle Wilbert, or John McGraw, or that fine brood of a boy, Dan O'Leary.

Old John D. Quit?
JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER retired some years ago. But during the recent sliding of the stocks, John D. came out at the proper time with an order to buy a couple of dimes' worth of shares at what seemed to him "attractive levels." He has retired, but he isn't missing anything. Similarly, if the Pirates fall into the same doldrums this year they will see Barney Dreyfuss out there coaching the pitchers as he used to do in the old days when he formed a cracker-jack ball club of the workmen at the old Bernheim distillery at Louisville. That is how retired he will be.

They have been trying to make Wilbert Robinson retire for several years, but gentle suasion, brute force and cold logic. The result has been nothing; your Uncle Wilbert is still doing business at the old stand in Flatbush and giving them back shot for shot and tooth for tooth.

Cupid Cuts Ranks of Girl Swimmers

DOVER, Eng. Feb. 5.—(P)—Love and overweight will keep a lot of good girls from trying to swim the English channel next season.

Jabez Wolfe, the swimmer and trainer, who made an offer to train any British-born girl who had the grit to go through with it, has revealed the reason for turning down most of the 300 applicants he had for the job.

Eager replies to the offer came from all over the world, but when they learned that it would require eight months of rigorous training at Dover, backed out, saying they couldn't possibly be separated for such a long time from their Tom, or their Dick, or their Harry.

Ninety-four girls were turned down

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
AL SIMMONS thinks W. Ferrell of Cleveland is the best pitcher in the league. Ferrell returned his contract unsigned the other day. It was for "some figure between $8000 and $10,000," said the Indians' president, Alva Bradley. Last year Ferrell's salary was $3000 and he won 21 games. Barney Dreyfuss once threatened to sue John J. McGraw for shouting "Hey, Barney!" Phil Berg, who beat Tony Canzone! the other night, is as busy as a bee in the ring. he swarms all over his man, but they say he's a light hitter. Broadway likes him. The Oklahoma Aggies have won 53 consecutive dual meets in wrestling. Primo Carnera's countrymen are going to present him with something nice. we suggest they gift a manhole cover and give it to the lad for a watch charm.

"You can say for me," says Uncle Wilbert, "that my team will be up there again this year. And by my team I mean the Brooklyn Robins."

Healthy? Oh, Yes!
AND the same thing goes for Barney Dreyfuss. Barney went into baseball "for his health," following illness 40 years ago. He has been growing healthier every day since—and he was especially healthy in 1901, 1902 and 1903 when Fred Clarke was helping him to make the rest of the National League teams look like sausages from Barney's old home in Mannheim, Germany.

He is healthy now, too, and somehow I can't make myself believe that Barney Dreyfuss will retire any sooner than John J. McGraw, Uncle Wilbert, Dan O'Leary or Harry Lauder. The Old Guard never surrenders; it gets healthier and healthier.

because they used the slow breast stroke; 28 were over weight; 42 were under weight; 30 were more than 23 years old; 64 were to slow and 40 could not pass the physical examination.

Altogether, there were 20 out of the 300 who had no sweethearts (apparently) who had good strokes, and who weighed just the right amount.

Of these Mr. Wolfe chose one, Miss Elsie West, of Swansea, who swam the Bristol channel, whom he has begun to train for the purpose of breaking Gertrude Ederle's record.

The automobile industry, including the manufacture both of complete vehicles and of bodies and parts, is development of the past 25 years. The value of the products of this industry in 1899 was less than $5,000,000. Twenty-five years later it was more than $3,080,000,000.

Will Attempt To Set New Record

Bullet-Like Machine Is Being Constructed for Race.

WOLVERHAMPTON, Eng. Feb. 5.—(P)—Florida sands will be burned again in March when Kaye Don at Daytona Beach will attempt to wrest the world's land speed record from his countryman, Sir Henry Segrave.

The man-made thunderbolt, nicknamed the "Silver Bullet," will have to better a speed of 231.36 miles an hour, an all-time record set up on the same sand course a year ago by Segrave.

Don's attempts will be made between March 15-30 on the twenty-seventh anniversary of beach record trials when a number of cars, mainly stock automobiles, will race against time.

The bullet-like machine, which Britons hope will prove to be the world's fastest automobile, was thought out and put on paper in the idyllic calm and comfort of an island that has no automobiles.

Without raucous honkings or the staccato of back-firing to disturb his dreams of automotive perfection, Louis Costalen, who designed the car, perched high up in a chalet on the island of Capri, worked out the details of the 4,000-horsepower racer.

Once in awhile he tore himself away from the Italian sunshine long enough to come here to see how well the factory was putting his ideas into metal. What he calls his real work, however, was done on the flivver-less isle.

Costalen went at his job like a tailor, basing the measurements of the new car on Kaye Don's physical dimensions. When the racer slips into the driver's seat, the four-wheeled bullet will fit him like a suit.

The total width of the body is two and one-half feet and its total height is three and one-half feet. It has a ground clearance of seven and one-quarter inches and a wheel-base of 15 feet.

Two aircraft, supercharged, 12-cylinder engines will drive the car through two propeller shafts, each shaft driving one of the rear wheels.

Wind brakes, designed for effectiveness at speeds which make wheel brakes dangerous to use, are among the engineering innovations embodied in the design.

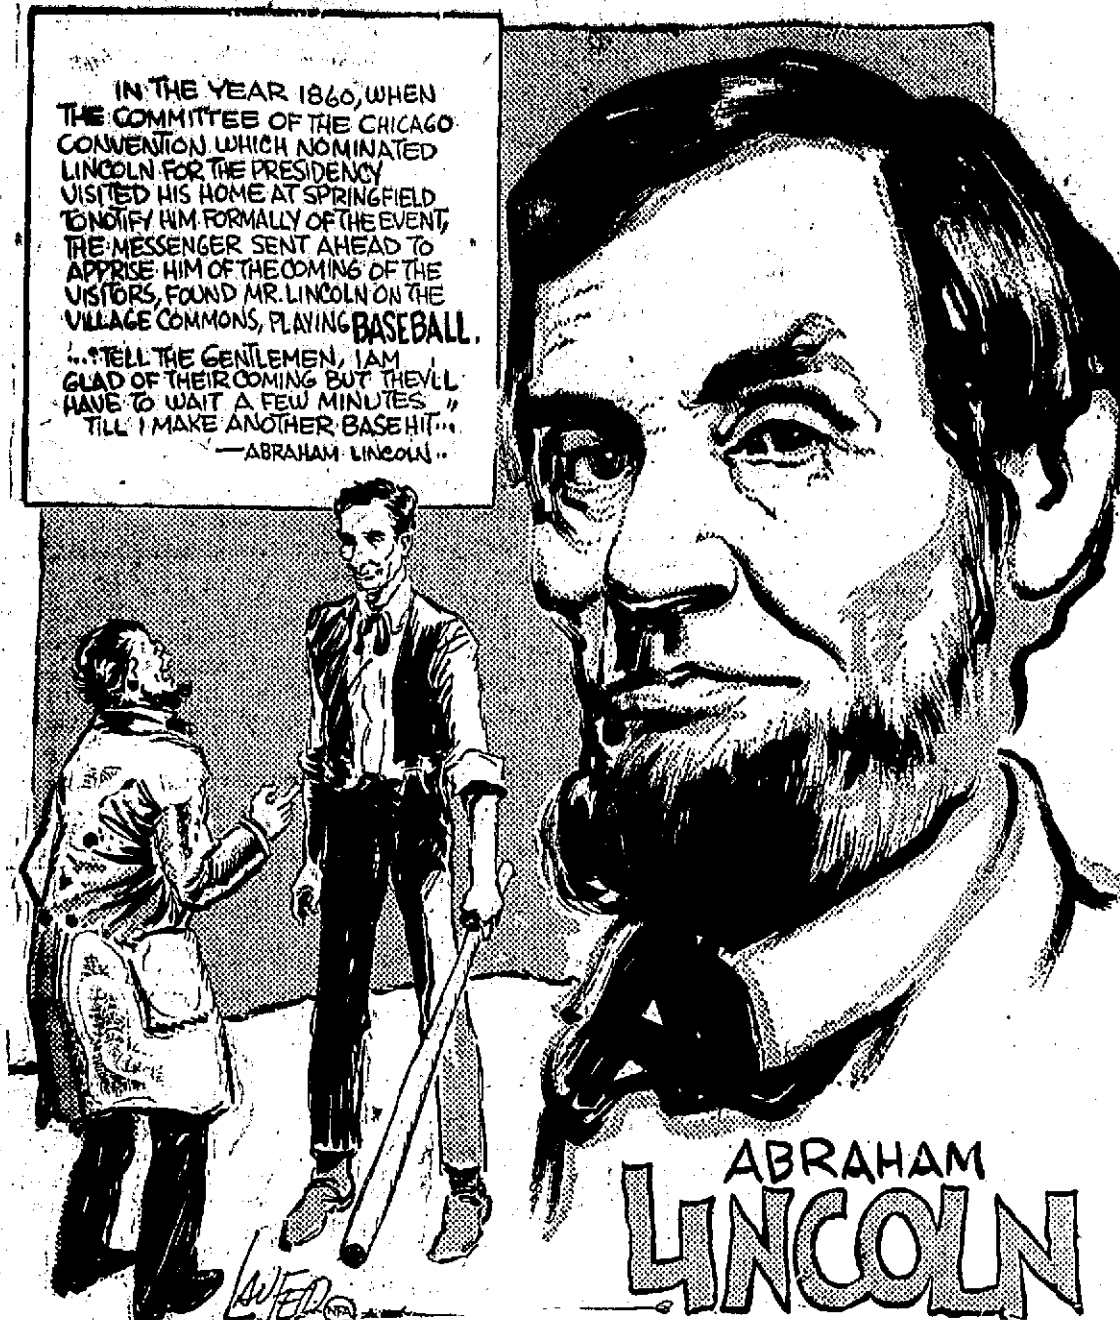

Costalen does not confine his imaginative genius to racing cars. He was responsible for the engine and gondola design of most of the British airships during the war, and for those of the R-34, the first airship to cross the Atlantic.

Non-Conference Teams Are Jinx To Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. Feb. 6.—(P)—The teams the Big Six left behind them when they quit the Missouri Valley conference to form their own select circle have proved a jinx since then.

Take the University of Oklahoma's basketball team. The Sooners won the Missouri valley title in 1927 and 1928. Last year they swept through the Big Six. In non-conference games, however, Oklahoma was beaten twice, by Washington university, champions of the mother conference.

The Sooners started a victory march this season in non-conference games until they ran afoul of the Oklahoma Aggies, another member of the Missouri valley league. The Aggies posted another defeat on Oklahoma's record.

British Plans Speedway Better Than Daytona's

BOSTON, Eng. Feb. 6.—(P)—Plans for an automobile beach speedway in England, longer and firmer than that at Daytona, Florida, are being made by the Automobile Racing association Ltd.

The course would be 12 to 15 miles long and 200 yards wide, with a roadway 100 yards wide down the center. Access to the sea would be provided at intervals by gateways.

Captain Malcolm Campbell, one of England's outstanding racers, has given his support to the proposal, saying that the construction of such a speedway would make England the world center of all motor racing activities.

Quit chopping cotton—quit wasting seed!

Pay for a new AVERY Shawnee Jr. Planter out of your savings in labor and seed!

Every practical farmer knows that "chopping" is one of the most expensive operations in making cotton. Now comes the Avery Hill-Drop Planter, which makes "chopping" not only expensive but wasteful, because with the use of this Planter it is to a large extent unnecessary. Planting is positively controlled so that the saving in seed is great. Users also report getting better stands and yields.

You can't afford to plant any other way! Let us give you the names of enthusiastic users who have already paid for their Hill-Drop Planters out of the savings effected.

50% to 100% elimination of chopping
50% to 75% saving in seed—users say!

The New Vogue for Prints

Prints in various fabrics and marked originality of designs were highlighted for spring wear at a recent New York Style Pageant. At upper left, a charming example of the more feminine mode developed in printed crepe of Bemberg and silk in a black, egg-shell and lacquer red flower design. For wear about town, the afternoon dress at the right, fashioned of Bemberg chiffon in a striking black and white modernistic print, achieves dignity and individuality for the mature woman. A black coat of heavy crepe simply cut and lined with white, completes the ensemble. Tiny geometrics in vivid yellow and bright orange on a dark background are favored for the college girl. The frock above is developed in Bemberg crepe with youthful collar and cuffs of linen in a clear orange.

to slay away and keep the rest of the household away."

"Yes, doctor."

Mrs. Wheeler and Harriet and even Cora received their instructions at once. On no account were they to enter Arthur Knight's room. Miss Owens was the night nurse. She and Miss Mallory had arranged a schedule so that at all times of the day and night one of them was on duty. Trays were arranged and sent up with the nurses' meals. It was exactly as though the residence had ceased to become a home and was now a hospital.

Explaining the situation to Tony Knight was more difficult. It was a time when one might have supposed common suffering would draw these two young women into sympathetic understanding. Not so.

JUDITH found her stepdaughter in the sunroom, staring gloomily out upon the March landscape.

"The doctor's just gone," she said by way of introduction.

The younger girl raised her eyes. "What's he say?"

"He says it's pneumonia."

"Then he'll die! He isn't going to get well. My daddy—my own daddy! Oh, how dare, how DARE you tell me such a terrible thing! I won't believe it. It isn't true! Father—FATHER!"

The girl was on her feet. Her words came in a gasping torrent. She had started for the door when Judith caught her arm.

"Tony!" she said firmly. "You mustn't talk that way. And you can't go upstairs now."

"I will go! I WILL!"

Judith had taken the girl's arm. Tony wrenched to get it free. The girls struggled but Judith held firm.

"But you mustn't!" she insisted. "Dr. Shepherd says no one is to be allowed today. He wouldn't let me go. It's—it's critical, he said. The slightest disturbance!"

Tony was sobbing now. She kept pulling and twisting. Her voice had risen in pitch. Suddenly she let go of Judith's arm, gave her one quick, malicious glance, brought her hand back and sent it sharply against Judith's cheek.

The shock was effective. With a little cry the older girl drew back. Tony made for the door.

"Here—what's going on here?"

A man's voice, curt and authoritative, cut the air.

"Miss Knight!" the voice continued severely. "we must have quiet!"

"But Doctor, she won't let me see my father!"

Doctor Shepherd eyed Tony Knight over the rim of his spectacles. He had not been the family physician of the Knight household for eight years without learning a thing or two about this girl.

"Nothing of the sort!" he said, glowering impressively. "She hasn't got anything to do with it."

Tony brightened. "Then I CAN go?"

"No. You can't. You're going to stay out of your father's room and, mind you, no more of these tantrums! Want him to have a collapse, do you? Want to make him worse?"

"But you said—"

"I said Mrs. Knight didn't have anything to do with issuing orders around here. I'm giving 'em. Understand? If you want to make your father a lot sicker than he is now start that screaming again! Are you going to stop it?"

It was really surprising how ferocious Doctor Shepherd, ordinarily a meek man, could become.

Tony hung her head.

"See that you do it!"

Judith had been silent through this conversation, but her cheeks were scarlet. Had Dr. Shepherd seen the girl strike her? Judith Knight was mortified and ashamed. She looked more ill at ease than Tony.

The doctor glanced from one girl to the other. Then with a final "H-m-m!" he turned on his heel and disappeared.

THERE were no more open arguments. Tony went about the house silently and sullenly and Judith was soon so anxious about Arthur she forgot the girl.

Miss Owens was more talkative than Miss Mallory. When the night nurse came downstairs at eight o'clock in the morning, after being relieved from duty, Judith took care to have an immaculate table waiting and a hearty breakfast ready. After she had finished her toilet Miss Owens could usually be persuaded to sit a few moments and chat.

Judith herself did not eat breakfast. She scarcely nibbled at food at all those days, complaining that it choked her. She drank coffee when Mrs. Wheeler sent it to her and would have been surprised if she had realized how often this happened throughout the day.

When Miss Owens said: "Fairly good night. He's holding his own," Judith smiled a vague, blurred smile in gratitude. When the nurse looked sober and admitted her patient was troubling her the girl's eyes closed in pain, and her lips pressed firmly together.

Two mornings in succession she heard that her husband's condition was dubious. The second day Dr. Shepherd came downstairs and told Judith it would be well to send for Junior.

"I think you owe it to the boy," he said shortly. "Twenty-four hours ought to tell the tale."

Doctor Shepherd made three trips to the house that day. Judith sent a telegram to the director of Arthur Junior's school saying the boy's presence was desired at home at once.

She had to keep busy. She had to be doing something and so she walked. Back and forth, back and forth through the downstairs rooms. Sometimes she counted her steps. When she did this she always broke off, realizing after a long period that she had forgotten where she stopped counting.

"Mrs. Knight," the housekeeper appealed to her timidly, "don't you think it would do you good, ma'am, to get out of the house for a while? Just a little walk down the street for fresh air?"

Judith shook her head resolutely. "I'm all right, Mrs. Wheeler. Quite all right."

Sandy sniffed at his mistress's skirts as though he wanted to express sympathy. The dog followed Judith about the house and when she paused or sank into a chair he crouched close to her, nudging his cold nose against her hand. Sandy's dark eyes seemed to say he was terribly sorry things were going so wrong and wished he could help.

Was Arthur Knight going to get well?

Judith dared not face the ques-

Menu For the Family

PERSONS who like sauerkraut must be delighted to know of the excellent reputation research workers have given it during the past few years. Mineral salts and vitamins are supplied in abundance and this places this cabbage product in an enviable position among foodstuffs.

Sauerkraut cocktails are rapidly gaining popularity. The canned kraut is simply drained from its juice and the juice is thoroughly chilled and used just as it is with whatever seasoning is wanted. If home-made or bulk kraut is used, put a pound of kraut in a coarse sieve. Pour three-fourths cup cold water through it and press out the juice. Chill and season with lemon juice, salt and a dash of paprika.

Sauerkraut and Dumplings

An excellent and inexpensive meal can be provided if sauerkraut is served with spareribs and dumplings. This is a hearty fare for a nippy winter's evening. If the dinner begins with cream soup and ends with a rice custard pudding, with kraut and dumplings for the main course, a well-balanced, nourishing meal is served. Here is the recipe:

One pound kraut, 2 pounds spareribs, 1 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, milk.

Put spareribs in a kettle with water to cover and cook one hour. Add canned kraut and cook 15 minutes longer or until the kraut looks "clear." Mix and add salt and baking powder. Call for milk to make a soft dough. Drop from top of spoon onto kraut. Cover kettle closely and cook 15 minutes. Serve at once or let dumplings will fall.

If uncanned or plain kraut is used, longer cooking is necessary. The kraut and meat are put in to cook together and enough water to cover both is added.

Since kraut is preserved in salt, no salt should be added to this dish in cooking.

Sauerkraut and Potatoes

Potatoes and kraut served in combination make a change from the usual order of things:

Two cups sauerkraut, 2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon lard, buttered crumbs. Melt lard in kettle, add kraut and cook 30 to 45 minutes. Put a layer of kraut in buttered dish, dot with bits of butter and cover with a layer of mashed potatoes. Continue layer for layer until all is used. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve from baking dish.

Published in the Interest of Better Farming

VOL. 1—No. 2 HOPE, ARK. Feb. 6, 1930.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we announce the most complete Farm Implement Store in Arkansas. Construction will start at once on our new Texarkana building and we also hope to rearrange our store here to make it the equal at the close of this year.

When our good friend J. D. Wright came in and told us that it was the opinion of himself and neighbors that the Slat Plow he bought from us in the fall was the best they had ever seen we forgot the rain and our troubles.

"Fo' de land's sake, Mandy, what make you all gith dat baby a big piece o' pork to chaw on. Don't you all know de po' chile'll choke on it?"

"Now, Can't you all see de string waddles tied to dat piece o' pork? De wadder end's tied to de chile's toe. Ef he choke he kick and ef he kick he jerk de pork out. Ah reckon you all don't learn no nothin' 'bout bringin' up chillun."

Farming has taken a turn for the better in Arkansas when big business men from a corporation to operate a large farm. This took place out of Pine Bluff last week and proves our theory that machines properly used will make farming profitable.

On a trip through this same section last summer the number of Fargall Tractors being used caused us to think that this move would come.

We need help in order to fill in these columns and will be glad to announce your coming box supper and would probably come out too, if possible. Although married we still like to eat "wif" the good looking girls.

The Harvester Company maintains huge stocks of repair parts at all their branches. The dealer keeps complete stocks of all the commoner parts. Some of these are not called for once a year, but we must keep them to maintain our advertised brand of service. It costs money to do this, but we consider it our duty to our customers.

We are glad that Mr. Corgille, who spoke to the merchants of Hope a few nights ago, thinks that Hope should be as good as Texarkana and that the territory served by Hope is as good as that serving his own city. We have known that for some time and think we should be better. Let's all work to cut out the dead wood and BUILD a better community.

Stalks that have gone through the winter are hard to cut but an International will cut them fast and smooth.

Farm Leaders To Cut Cotton Crop

Carl Williams Stresses Improved Quality Is Needed.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Southern farm leaders late Wednesday moved to curtail the 1930 cotton crop by an acreage reduction campaign, to be undertaken immediately. The action was decided upon after Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, cotton member of the federal farm board, har sounded a warning that "the farmer must move up a year in his calculations and think of his prospective crop in terms of prospective prices, abandoning the old system of shaping a crop on the basis of last year's prices."

Williams, arriving earlier than expected at the sessions here of the southern agricultural workers, addressed a meeting of the cotton acreage reduction committee of the American cotton co-operative association. He declared that in his opinion cotton planting in the United States crossed the danger line at 40,000,000 acres, making this statement after statistics had been presented to show a harvested acreage in 1929 of 46,000,000 acres.

The acreage reduction committee, ratified by the agricultural workers' association, announced a meeting here Thursday to shape the details of the reduction program.

Williams told the assembly that the American farmer must look to an improved staple, rather than greater production, as his ultimate goal. He said that American exports have remained around 8,000,000 bales in the last 20 years in spite of the fact that foreign consumption had increased 60 per cent.

Both planted acreage and production have increased in America," he said, "but our quality has been on the decline and meanwhile the quality of foreign cotton has steadily been improved."

Thomas of St. Paul's church, Chicago received 25 and Dr. George Craig Stewart of St. Luke's church, Evanston, 23.

In future conventions laymen will have equal rights with clergy in elections under an amendment to the diocesan canons adopted yesterday.

Bishop Griswold came to Chicago in 1917 to assist Bishop Anderson in the diocesan administration. He had been for 14 previous years bishop of Salina, Kan., where he was consecrated January 8, 1903. On the same date in 1917 he was instituted as suffragan bishop here. He will be 70 years old next July 8. For 45 years he has been in the service of the church.

Dr. Griswold New Bishop of Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Sheldon Munson Griswold, suffragan bishop of Chicago for 13 years Wednesday was selected to fill the bishopric of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Chicago, made vacant by the death of the Most Rev. Charles P. Anderson.

Bishop Griswold was first chosen by the clerical delegates to the 93d diocesan convention, of the fifth ballot. This choice then was approved by the lay delegates, 35 1-2 votes being cast in his favor, half a vote more than was necessary for approval.

In the final ballot cast by the clergymen, Bishop Griswold received 56 of the 104 votes cast, Dr. George H.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Public Doesn't Play Fair, Sighs Disgusted Plumber

When It's Cold Enough To Freeze Water, It's Too Cold Outdoors.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 6.—A tall man, hooded and gloved, wearing rough clothes and a week-old beard, walking into the Gazette office.

"I'm a plumber," he announced, "and I want to tell you a story about plumbers. . . . You don't need to use my name; I don't want publicity. It's about all plumbers."

"What about plumbers?" "The public doesn't know about plumbers," he mourned. "They think freezing weather like we've been having makes plumbers rich. It doesn't. It makes plumbers work."

"It's hard work, and the public makes it harder. Harder no us, and harder on themselves. They don't play fair."

"I answered 11 calls yesterday. Five of them were jobs, and six were false alarms. With two helpers to pay, I lost money. I lost patience, too."

"I drove six miles to answer one call. The lady said water was flooding the house, and I ran around 50 other calls, dry jobs, to take care of that call. The house was locked up, the woman had gone to town, and a neighbor told me the woman's husband had fixed the leak."

"I answered another call. When I got there, another plumber was at work on the job. When I turned around to drive away, a third plumber, drove up."

"Three plumbers wasted on one $2 job, with the city full of people crying for service."

"That's no way to do. If a person calls a plumber, the plumber will tell him how much work he's got ahead of him. If the customer can't wait, he ought to say so. But he doesn't. He calls three or four plumbers, and the first one who comes gets the job."

"Even that wouldn't be so bad, if he'd call us up and cancel the call when the work is done."

"We probably could go into court and collect for time wasted in making runs to job already done by some other plumber, but that's not the point. The public ought to be willing to co-operate with us enough to spend two or three minutes telephoning and canceling a call."

"That would give us a chance to get around to other people who are still waiting for service."

Having aired his grievances against the inconsiderate public, the plumber relaxed a little.

"Being a plumber is no fun in the kind of weather we're having," he said. "If it's cold enough to freeze water pipes, it's cold enough to make working outside darned uncomfortable."

"During the recent sub-zero weather I worked with a helper two hours putting in a cut-off under a house in cut off that should have been put in last September. A busted drain pipe cut loose and flooded us with a subfull of water. It filled my shoes."

"I thought I'd take off one shoe and pour the water out. The water had put out our candle, and it was dark under the house. Instead of my own shoe I took off my helper's and neither of us noticed it until the shoe was off. That's how cold we were."

"Sometimes we run into worse things than cold. One time I was squeezing under a house with barely room enough to slide forward. I put my hand on something that felt like a shoe. It was a shoe. It had a foot in it."

"That gave me the creeps, and I lay there a minute wishing I was anywhere but under that house. I couldn't see, but I could feel, and I investigated further. The foot had a leg attached."

"That was too much. I howled for a light and turned it on. . . . It was a leg, all right—a cork leg."

"However, all that's a part of our business; it's what we get paid for. I just told you about those things to show you that our work is hard enough without the public making it harder."

The plumber paused a minute. "Think you can get a story out of all that?"

"Maybe."

harder."

The plumber paused a minute. "Think you can get a story out of all that?"

"Maybe."

DODGE "BIG WEDDING"

Daughter of Richest Senator and Young Bank Clerk Hubby to Live on His Small Salary

Here is a striking picture of Margaret Couzens-Chewning, 19-year-old daughter of Senator James Couzens, the richest member of the U. S. senate, and William Jeffries Chewning, 25, who eloped from Washington and were quietly wed in Baltimore because of an aversion to a "big wedding." They are spending their honeymoon in Norfolk, Va., radiantly happy because the bride's parents have approved the match. Mrs. Chewning is one of America's richest heiresses, her father's fortune being estimated at $50,000,000, and Mr. Chewning comes from a prominent Virginia family and is a clerk in a Washington bank.

Judge Sibeck Files Injunction To Prevent Paying Auto License

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Suit for temporary injunction to restrain Dwight H. Blackwood as chairman of the State Highway Commission from enforcing the payment of state motor vehicles tax on trucks operating in Pulaski county for road building purposes, was filed in Pulaski Chancery court today by Judge W. F. Sibeck, of Pulaski county.

SAYS! TANLAC WITHOUT EQUAL FOR STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLES

Nurse Gives Remarkable Endorsement

Tanlac may seem miraculous in its action to millions who ended stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as rheumatism, pains in the back, sides, joints and muscles from its use—but the truth is every drop of Tanlac is a strong potent medicine while most other remedies are weak and ineffective. Mrs. G. Picard, a nurse with many years' experience, is one who ought to know. She says, "In 10 years active nursing have found Tanlac without an equal as a remedy for stomach and liver troubles, and I can certainly promise people wonderful results in view of my long experience with this medicine. I had stomach troubles for years, could eat scarcely anything without suffering, never any appetite, always nervous and run-down. But as soon as I began Tanlac it started to build me right up. All stomach troubles were routed and never any pain, distress or gas since. Now I eat everything with perfect safety." Many "patent medicines" make glowing promises that may tempt you to buy them but remember Tanlac is a REAL medicine that backs its claims with a guarantee. Do not accept a substitute. "Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper figure, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—Be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.
